What we do

How does BLS protect my personal information?

To protect your personal information from unauthorized access and use, we use security measures that comply with federal law. These measures include computer safeguards and secured files and buildings.

How does BLS collect my personal information?

We collect your personal information during the normal course of conducting our business, for example, when you

- open a new account
- complete investor documentation
- submit electronic, telephone, written, and verbal communications.

We also collect your personal information from others, such as transaction information from custodians and communications with your authorized representatives, such as your attorney, accountant, or any other third-party representative you have authorized.

Why can't I limit all sharing?

Federal law gives you the right to limit only

- sharing for affiliates' everyday business purposes—information about your creditworthiness
- affiliates from using your information to market to you
- sharing for nonaffiliates to market to you

State laws and individual companies may give you additional rights to limit sharing. See below for more on your rights under state law.

What happens when I limit sharing for an account I hold jointly with someone else?

Your choices will apply to everyone on the account.
